CONSERVAS
ORTIZ

For the past 130 years, Conservas Ortiz has been fishing tuna with the same traditional line-fishing methods that respect the marine ecosystems. Ortiz tuna is fished in the Bay of Biscay between France and Spain and then treated and packed with age-old preservation methods that ensure the freshness of the fish. All Ortiz products become better over time – they age like a good wine.

ORTIZ WHITE TUNA in olive oil

Ortiz White Tuna is individually line caught with live bait or fly during the coastal fishing season. This age-old technique of selective fishing respects the environment and protects marine reserves. Ortiz White Tuna is prepared with artisanal methods that ensure an exquisite flavor and delicate silky texture that is enhanced by the olive oil in which it is preserved.

ORTIZ TRADITIONAL SARDINES

Ortiz preserves the Sardina Pilchardus, a variety of sardines, using traditional methods. One by one, the sardines are cleaned by hand and then fried in extra virgin olive oil. Preserved Sardines, like Ortiz's White Tuna, become more tender and delicate over time, meaning they age well, like a good wine.
